The Internet

The Internet, accessible to anyone with a computer and modem, is a treasure trove of information on any subject, including church history. University libraries can be accessed and texts of historical documents can be downloaded, sometimes in their original language. Through “Christianity On-line,” a service of America On-line, various Christian periodicals, including Christian History, can be browsed or searched for key words. Besides historical texts and current articles, you can even listen to sermons from Christian leaders like Jim Elliot (a couple of Jim’s sermons are posted at <http://www.wheaton.edu/bgc/archives/docs/elliotsermons.html>).
